DEMPSEY DELIVERS KNOCKOUT BLOW IN THE FOURTH ROUND

World's Heavyweight Champion Successfully Defends His Title Against French Invasion

KNOCKED DOWN IN FOURTH

Carpentier Rises With Effort and Scarcely Straightens Before Right to Jaw Finishes Him

CARPENTIER WINS SECOND

First and Third Rounds go to Dempsey—Frenchman Weighs in at 172, Champion 188

(By United Press)

Ringside, Jersey City, N. J. July 2.—Jack Dempsey proved himself the greatest fighting machine in the world this afternoon when he knocked out Georges Carpentier, the idol of France in the fourth round, with two rights to the jaw and brought the fight to a dramatic climax when it looked like it might go many more rounds.

After one minute of the fourth round Dempsey crashed his right to Carpentier's jaw and the Frenchman fell down in a heap in his own corner. He took the count of nine with Descamps looking at him from his corner in absolute terror. Dempsey stood several paces away from the Frenchman, poised with his right hand ready to finish the task.

Carpentier arose with an effort. He had hardly straightened himself when Dempsey with his jaws gritted together, his beard fairly bristling crashed his right again to the jaw after one minute and sixteen seconds. The Frenchman fell to the floor with a thud. He was obviously out. The count was unnecessary.

Dempsey stood over him again apparently unwilling to be fooled by a gong like he was in Toledo two years ago. He seemed to snap out of a deep thought when Jack Kearns, his hair standing on end, his arms shaking like leaves, rushed in and grabbed the champion.

Behind a flock of officers, Carpentier preceded by his manager, Descamps entered the ring at 2:56. He was given a great ovation. He turned in every direction, smiling and shook hands over his head.

Dempsey entered the ring at 2:59. With him was Jack Kearns, his manager. Dempsey and Carpentier shook hands. They both smiled at each other.

Referee Ertle then entered the ring. Dempsey showed not a tremor as he stood shaking the Frenchman's hand. The ring was practically cleared at 3:04. Carpentier's weight was announced at 172 and Dempsey as 188.

Tex Rickard was introduced with the principles. The ring was cleared at 3:13 with the exception of the seconds. Kearns was pinching Dempsey's back and Descamps was walking around Carpentier like an old mother hen looking him over. The bell rang at 3:18.

Round One.

Carpentier sent a left hook to the back in a clinch. Carpentier lifted a right to the head, clinch. Carpentier upper-cuts right to the chin. Carpentier jabbed to the face with a left. Clinch. Dempsey pounded back of the head with his right. Carpentier with a right to the head. Dempsey pounded a right to the side. Carpentier lifted a right to the head and pounded Dempsey's body with his left, clinch. Dempsey holds and hits with a right to the head, staggering Carpentier, one punch cutting his nose. Carpentier landed a terrific right to the eye. Dempsey hooked a left, clinch. Dempsey holds and hits per-cut and hooked a left to the nose. Carpentier lifted right to the head. Dempsey slashed Carpentier with a right. Carpentier missed a right and fell through the ropes. Carpentier landed a right to the face, staggering Dempsey, ten seconds before the bell. The round ended with the fighters together but neither suffered any damage. Dempsey's round. Carpentier looked bad, his ribs and stomach were red and his nose was cut.

Round Two.

They danced about. Carpentier missed on a clinch. On the break

* ODDS SHOULD HAVE BEEN ABOUT 96 TO 4 *

Arena, Jersey City, N. J. July 2.—The betting odds apparently should have been about 94 to 6 on Dempsey.

The bleacherites and gallery gods among the fight fans have always been noted for their keenness and knowledge of the game.

Of the first 100 bleacherites in line today, polled by the United Press, all but six picked the champion to win.

Carpentier bounced away and then landed a hard right to the head. Carpentier resumed the retreat but came in with left and right leads, missing both. Clinch. Carpentier hooked a left to the head and in the clinch Dempsey cut with his left. Carpentier landed a left and right to the head, staggering Dempsey. Repeated and Dempsey came in. He upper-cut with his right and split Carpentier's right cheek with his right. Carpentier retreated and fought continually for a clinch. Carpentier tried two left jabs and a right swing. Dempsey shifted and missed with his right. Carpentier tried a right for the body and left for the head but missed. Clinch. Carpentier's round. Dempsey was almost in the middle of this round when Carpentier rocked him and he went up against the ropes with his guard down. Picking rights to the jaw, he recovered quickly and the Frenchman seemed to lose heart a little.

Round Three.

Dempsey bored in and kicked Carpentier away, landing a right to the head, but it was too high. Carpentier returned the punch. Carpentier missed a terrific right. Then Carpentier upper-cut twice to the face and missed on the third attempt. Clinch. Dempsey pounded head and body with both hands. Carpentier lifted another right and almost fell to the floor. Dempsey missed a left blow to the head and returned with the same blow. Clinch. Both beat the body. Dempsey pounded head with left and right, staggering Carpentier. Dempsey jabbed Carpentier's face. Carpentier missed left and right to the head. Clinch. At the break Carpentier danced away and again missed. With both hands in the close they pellmelled without scoring. Ten seconds before the bell Dempsey landed two lefts and two rights to the head and jarred the Frenchman. Dempsey's round.

Fourth Round

Carpentier retreated. Dempsey caught him and pounded head and body with right and left but could not find the mouth. Dempsey upper-cut with right to the face but in the break Carpentier leaped in with a right to the head. Dempsey followed Carpentier with a right to the jaw, downing Carpentier for a count of nine. When he arose Dempsey tore after him like a tiger and before the challenger was fairly set Dempsey chopped him on the jaw with another right and Carpentier went down for the full count. While the referee stood over him counting off the seconds, Carpentier struggled manfully to arise, lifting up his arm as if in protest against the count. He was unable to help himself to his feet. The knockout came one minute and sixteen seconds after the gong starting the fourth round.

Preliminaries Start at 12:14

Ringside, Jersey City, New Jersey, July 2.—The first preliminaries started at 12:14 p. m. The contestants were Mickey Delmont of Newark and Johnny Curtin of Jersey City, bantam weights. Curtin out-pointed him by a wide margin in the eighth round. There was no decision.

The first preliminary boys were hardly out of the ring when the second men went out. It was eight rounds between Paddy Gatty of New York and Frankie Burns of Jersey City, feather weights. Burns knew too much for Gatty and won the popular decision.

Babe Hernan, the bantam weight,

* Fight Fan Championship Goes to a Colored Man *

Arena, Jersey City, N. J. July 2.—The fight fan championship of the world goes to Alfred Phipps, colored. Phipps, a native of New York City, was in line before one of the bleacher seat ticket wagons at 10:15 last night.

The negro is 27 years old. He said Carpentier should win within seven rounds.

A quarter of an hour after Phipps took up his vigil before the wagon, Jack Walsh, 25, Yonkers, N. Y., came along, he thought Dempsey should win in seven rounds.

stable mate of Dempsey, came on with Joe Metrangola of New Orleans. The spectators apparently were not interested in anything but the main business of the afternoon. Old timers in the press box called it a packed house of 90,000, the largest in American boxing history.

When Metrangola fell across the ropes in the fifth round, Hernan refused to hit him. He turned to the referee with "Stop it" and the officials stepped between them just as the towel flew from the New Orleans corner.

The fourth preliminary was supplied by Dick Griffin, Fort Worth, Texas and Benny Coster, New York bantam weight. Coster was covering up the ropes after going down twice. He was waved to his corner.

Gene Tunney, the fight heavyweight champion of the army, and Soldier Jones came on next. Denny Sullivan was the referee. Referee Sullivan stopped the fifth preliminary in time to save Jones from further punishment in the seventh round. Tunney hit him with everything he had.

Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul contender for the heavyweight championship, came to the ringside and announced that he would formerly challenge the winner of the main bout.

The fans were getting nervous just before time for the semiwind up. They stood up in their seats and refused to carry out the orders of Humphries to take their seats. Humphries announced that the Miske-Renault semi-wind up would not go on and that Dempsey and Carpentier would come on immediately.

By HENRY FARRELL

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Ringside, Jersey City, N. J. July 2.—Gray drab clouds hung over this city early this morning when fate's historians opened two pages for Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier.

Victory and defeat gaped up with its blank columns at the two men who are to meet this afternoon in the huge yellow pine saucer that Tex Rickard has pitched on a big waste of ground down "near the railroads."

Jersey City, of course, has street cars, but they started to work earlier than usual this morning to take care of the crowd of 90,000 that is expected to see the world's champion and the greatest of France decided the question of world's superiority with their fists.

Early arrivals for the five dollar general admission seats found it cool. Natives used to the ways of the weather in this city warned against optimism, however.

At 8:40 a. m. the crowds outside the arena had assumed enormous proportions. No one had been permitted to enter.

Eight hundred policemen and fire.

TO SIGN PEACE RESOLUTION

(By United Press)

Raritan, N. J., July 2.—President Harding, who is spending the weekend at Senator Frelinghuysen's home here, is expected before night to sign the Knox-Porter resolution declaring peace between the United States and the Central Powers.

The resolution was passed by the Senate late yesterday. It already had been passed by the House. A special messenger was to leave Washington this morning bearing the document to "the hill," the Frelinghuysen house here.

The president will find the resolution waiting for his signature when he returns from a golf game and luncheon at Bernardsville, twelve miles from Raritan, this afternoon.

JULY GETS GOOD START FOR SETTING A RECORD

Maximum Temperature Friday is 93 Degrees, Which is Higher Than Any Day in June—Average 78

LOWER THAN JUNE AVERAGE

July started in Friday with a higher maximum than was recorded any day in June, which was exceedingly warm, according to Elwood Kirkwood of Mauzy, county weather observer, but July has a mark to shoot at if she breaks any records for the forty-year period in this county.

The mercury in the weather observer's thermometer went to ninety-three degrees Friday, which is the highest point reached this summer, but the average temperature for twenty-four hours ending last, midnight was not as high as the record 24-hour average for June.

With a maximum of 93 and a minimum of 63 Friday, the average was 78 degrees. The record average for June in any given twenty-four hours was 79½, although the maximum was not as high as on July 1. The minimum, however, was much higher than yesterday's.

July is invariably a hot month, according to Mr. Kirkwood. The high record for this county during the last forty years is 108 degrees, which was established in July, 1901. Several years the mercury went above 100 degrees in July. The monthly maximum has never been under 90 degrees.

BOARD OF REVIEW ADJOURNS SINE DIE

Ends Session of 28 Days Devoted to Equalizing Assessments and Correcting Errors

MANY MISTAKES ARE FOUND

The county board of review adjourned sine die today after the annual session of twenty-eight days. The board has been engaged in equalizing assessments of personal property which were taken during the spring period and in correcting errors in the township assessors' books.

As is usually the case, the county board finds many errors in addition which are made by the assessors, that results in thousands of dollars being added to the tax duplicates. The assessors assess each item of personal property and then add the sums at which each article is valued to arrive at the total assessment of each taxpayer.

One of the last things the board did was to call the attention of George Aultman, Rushville township assessor, to several inequalities in valuations in Rushville city, which resulted in about twenty increases in assessments being made.

NO ACTION ON CLUB ROOMS

No definite action was taken last night at the meeting of Rush Post 150, American Legion, concerning the club rooms, as only a small attendance was present. The legion members were extended an invitation to take part in an all day picnic Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, east of Rushville. The picnic will be given by the Ladies of the Mattox Circle, G. A. R.

HENRY JOHNSON ARRESTED

Henry Johnson, colored, was arrested late yesterday on a charge of assault and battery, the charge being preferred by Orpha George, who also was fined on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Johnson will appear tonight in Squire Stech's court, at which time a plea will be entered in the case.

BROWN FUNERAL MONDAY

The funeral services for Mrs. A. C. Brown who died yesterday afternoon at her home in North Morgan street, will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock at the First United Presbyterian church, conducted by the Rev. E. G. McKibben. Friends may view the remains at the late residence anytime after seven o'clock this evening.

TWO MEN SEVERELY INJURED

Timothy Nanscoy and Robert Warner Hurt at Stone Quarry

Two accidents happened yesterday at a stone quarry near Moscow which is being operated by Ebert Redenbaugh and Lloyd Waggoner. Robert Warner got one hand caught in some of the machinery and one thumb and several fingers were badly mashed. Later yesterday, Timothy Nanscoy, one of the workers, received a broken middle finger on his left hand, when he was struck accidentally by a large rock, thrown by another workman.

Each of the men were compelled to quit work and the injuries proved to be painful, but are not believed to be of a serious nature.

FIRST WHEAT IS THRESHED TODAY

H. F. Brown of Circleville and Frank Offutt in Posey Township First To Deliver Grain

Two Threshing Rings in Orange Township Meeting to Protest Prices—Agreement With One

The first wheat was threshed in Rush county today, when two elevators reported new wheat. H. F. Brown of Circleville brought in wheat this morning to the T. H. Reed and Son elevator, which was graded as Number 2. The grain weighed 58 pounds to the bushel and brought $1.05.

Elmer Hutchinson at Arlington reported also this morning that he had received wheat from Frank Offutt in Posey township, who lives south of Arlington. Mr. Offutt began threshing this morning at 9:45.

This wheat tested Number 4 and weighed 54 pounds to the bushel, and the moisture was said to be O. K. passing the test. Mr. Hutchinson said that he was paying $1.08 today for Number 2 wheat.

If the continued hot weather prevails next week, the elevators will be swamped with grain and threshing will be on in earnest.

Owners of two threshing rings in Orange township called meetings last night to protest against the wage scale for threshing as adopted by the Rush County Threshermen, and the two rings affixed their own prices, which brought out quite a heated argument. The Robert Redenbaugh ring, which has been in operation in Orange township since 1882, finally reduced their prices to meet with favor of the farmers, but the George Gahimer ring refused to reduce, and no decision was reached.

Farmers of the township who were affected by the two rings held the meetings at Gowdy and Homer.

CHINCH BUGS APPEAR IN LARGE NUMBERS

Reported in Two Corn Fields in Noble Township and in One in Union Township Today

DEFOLIATING PLANTS ALSO

Chinch bugs are appearing in increasing numbers in Rush county, according to reports being received at the county agent's office.

Two corn fields in Noble township and one in Union township are infested with the parasites, which are causing great damage. It was reported that twenty rows had been eaten up in the Union township field.

Farmers are urged to guard against the bugs spreading from the wheat fields into the corn because they will destroy whole fields in short order.

The chinch bugs at a certain stage develop wings and after that are not a menace to the crops.

The county agent has a bottle of the bugs in his office for the examination by anyone who is not familiar with the pests.

They have appeared on some plants in this city and are defoliating many bushes and ornamental plants.

WATSON IS SLATED AS SENATE LEADER

Senator Henry C. Lodge is Expected to Resign When Peace Resolution is Passed

HIS HEALTH IS A FACTOR

Watson Impresses Senators With Fitness For Leadership in Speech Last Week

Senator James E. Watson of this city is slated to become the republican leader in the senate before the present extra session of congress terminates.

This is the information contained in a dispatch from Washington to the Richmond Palladium. The dispatch says that Senator Henry C. Lodge of Massachusetts, according to a report which is being circulated in Washington, is expected to "resign the republican leadership in the senate before the close of the present extra session of congress, in which event, it is predicted, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana will be selected to succeed him."

Continuing, the dispatch says: Senator Lodge assumed the senate leadership of his party at a time when foreign relations were put to the fore, but as soon as the resolution declaring peace with Germany had been adopted foreign affairs will cease to be a question of paramount importance and the congressional spotlight will be turned upon legislation which the American people are particularly interested in, the tax revision and the permanent tariff measures.

It is admitted that Senator Lodge has no especial talent for nor interest in fiscal legislation. He is first and foremost a specialist on foreign affairs. It is also a fact that his health is not robust and there is a possibility that Washington's tropical climate will keep him out of the city much of the time this summer. Under the circumstances, his decision to resign the majority leadership in the senate would occasion no surprise.

An address which Senator Watson delivered in the senate last Friday, in which he outlined a definite program of legislation aimed to assist in the industrial rehabilitation of the country, impressed the great majority of the Republican senators with his fitness to assume the majority leadership. Senator Watson is the ranking majority member of the senate finance committee and, it is said, no member of the senate has a better knowledge of tariff and revenue legislation than the senior Indiana senator. His talent for leadership has frequently been demonstrated.

Since congress convened in special session last April there has been an admitted lack of astute majority leadership. The legislative program has been drifting.

CHARLES DAY FREED ON $250 BOND TODAY

Bond of Alleged Wife Deserter is Reduced From $1,000—Alex Harrison is Still in Jail

WIDAU ALLOWANCE HEARD

Charley Day was released from jail today, when his bond was lowered from $1,000 to $250 cash, which he provided. Day was arrested the other day on a charge of wife desertion and placed in jail when he failed to provide $1,000 bond. It was decided by Judge Sparks today to release him, if he could provide a cash bond of $250 which was furnished.

This morning, Judge Sparks heard a matter in the John Widau divorce case concerning a temporary allowance until the case can be tried in the September term.

Alex Harrison was still in jail today on the charge of petit larceny, it being alleged that he stole a 15 pound pig from John Holman of near New Salem. The pig was valued at $2.50 and Sheriff Jones will release him if he can furnish $100 bond. It was stated today that his relatives were attempting to provide the bond.

There are many points of excellence in "The Last Door," a Selznick Picture starring Eugene O'Brien which is now showing at the Princess theatre, and chief among them is the splendid work of the star who portrays the past of the "Magnet," a gentlemanly crook. Mr. O'Brien makes this character real and appealing and when the final scene was shown it was the consensus of opinion that this picture provides him with the best part of his career.

Action, suspense and mystery, as well as the inevitable romantic strain always essential in any good motion picture, all are provided in abundance and during the entire hour or so that "The Last Door" is on the screen there is not a moment but what some exciting scene is being enacted.

An excellent supporting cast composed of Martha Mansfield, Nita Naldi, Katherine Perry, Charles Craig, Helen Pillsbury, Warren Cook and others of prominence portray the various roles with admirable fidelity, and Director William P. S. Earle has handled the script in a manner to make the story both crisp and concise.

Fatty Arbuckle is also on the program in "The Cook."

"Oliver Twist, Jr." Mystic

Harold Goodwin, who has had the good fortune to be elevated to stardom by William Fox, and therefore has behind him the vast Fox organization, will be seen here for the first time as a star next Monday and Tuesday at the Mystic Theatre in a picture called "Oliver Twist, Jr.," adapted from the wonderful story by Charles Dickens. Those who love Charles Dickens' novels will enjoy this Fox picture. In it they will find vividly portrayed the same scenes that have made that book so widely read. It is said that Goodwin makes an admirable Oliver. Scott McKee plays the Artful Dodger, G. Raymond Nye is Bill Sykes and Wilson Hummel is Fagin. Nancy is played by Irene Hunt.

Goodwin is only eighteen years of age, and those who have watched his career of six years in pictures predict he will soon be one of the big favorites. He began his picture work as one of a number of boys and girls in "atmosphere." He was living in Hollywood a short time later when a company, making a picture near his home, wanted a lad for the part of a newsboy. Harold got the job. Since those early days he has played with Wallace Reid, Bessie Love, William S. Hart, Lila Lee, Shirley Mason, Vivian Martin, Mary Pickford, Harry Carey, Mary Miles Minter, Bebe Daniels, Tom Mix and other stars.

OWLS GIVEN LIFE BY JURY'S RETURN

John Burrough's Club Today Declared The Independence of Owls By The "Jury"

FINDING BASED ON BRIEFS

Club Was Appointed Jurors to Try The Case of "Birds That Kill Birds" by "Judge" Harding

Washington, July 2—The owls can celebrate the "Fourth" in Peace for their "independence" was declared by the "jury" of the John Burrough Club today. The declaration of independence was filed at the White House with George B. Christian, Jr., secretary for "Judge" Harding, who appointed the "jury" when it visited the White House some time ago. The "finding" of the "jury" is based upon the club's investigation and upon hundreds of "briefs" filed with the American Forestry Association for the Club from every section of the country.

Every phase of owl values from pest destroyers to their fabled influence on the lives of human beings was submitted from all over the United States. Some of the "briefs" called upon Pres. Harding to get rid of the owls at once and predicted all kinds of bad luck for his administration if he did not do so. The John Burroughs Club, however, considered only the economic value of the owls for the question put to them by "Judge Harding" was in regard to birds that preyed on other birds, being allowed to live.

The "jury's finding" as filed at the White House today follows:

"To President Warren G. Harding, The White House.

"The John Burroughs Club of the Force School, lately hored by a visit to the executive mansion, and who were appointed jurors to try the case of "birds that kill birds" have made their decision as follows:

"In spite of the fact that these birds destroy others of their own ilk, they have to their credit and in defence of their lives the fact that they are of much economic value and have certain other qualities in their favor.

"We shall take for instance, the crow, whose value in lessening the number of harmful insects was so great that for a long time scientists working for the government were unable to say whether his bad acts counterbalanced his good deeds.

"Next we take the Great Horned Owl, whose bad habits are well known, but even he kills, rats mice and other rodents.

"Finally we come to the Coopers and Sharp-Skinned Hawks, who especially the Coopers Hawk, have brought wrath and hatred upon the heads of even the less destructive birds of prey of the country.

"But then, can we convict a whole class of God's creatures because a few have been known to slaughter their own kind? Can that inexorable law of nature 'The Survival of the fittest', which has been since the world began, be broken by us who owe so much to it, even unto our very existence? Do we put a sentence of death on all bears because a few have been known to eat domestic animals? We kill them if we know they are guilty, that is all. If we destroy the feathered murderer we must also pass sentence on the parasitic vine, which encircles and saps the life from the sturdy forest tree!

"Nay, it is not for us to do these things, if it were God's will they should perish, it would be unnecessary for us to pit our puny selves against the countless flocks of our nation, therefore we, the John Burrough Club of Force School, wish to state to His Honor, the President of the United States, sitting as a judge in this case, that these birds should not die, but should be allowed to remain alive in their native haunts, with no legislative sentence hanging, a dread menace, over their heads, signed "Harold V. T. Roach, Ed."

The Bombing Planes

The easy destruction of the captive German U-boats by a fleet of American bombing planes proves clearly the superiority of air craft over small water craft—when the air craft have a fair chance. Seldom, however, in actual warfare would a submarine give an airplane such an opportunity as those American planes had off Cape Charles.

The targets were anchored. They were not only stationary, but they were continuously on the surface of the water. An enemy submarine in real life would almost certainly be in motion, and would almost as certainly dive as soon as it sighted a plane. The game, then, would be for a flock of planes to patrol the vicinity indefinitely, waiting for the submarine to come up or reveal its presence by disturbance of the surface.

The value of aircraft against submarines, is probably that of harrassing, discommoding and discouraging them rather than wiping them out. For demolition, such a net of submerged mines as the American fleet spread across the North Sea during the war, and will spread across the entrances to all harbors in case of another war is probably more effective.

The real gain from these experiments is a demonstration of the greatly increased accuracy of aerial bombing. Such bombing seems likely to prove, in the future, tremendously effective against all stationary targets, however small, on sea or land, and against any large moving targets at sea.

The application to cruisers and battleships is obvious. It is going to be easy to hit such warships from the air, and it is doubtful whether they can be sufficiently protected by heavier deck armor. A shower of powerful bombs, from a big fleet of airplanes, can almost certainly clutter up the deck and put most of the guns out of commission, if it does not actually sink the vessel.

The "Sell Now" League

Leaders of American industry are uniting in a concerted effort to start business moving. The "Sell Now League" has been formed with headquarters in New York City to act as representative men are included in the league is to interest manufacturers, sales executives and merchants the country over in an intensive selling campaign. Many of America's representative men are included in the League.

Any such effort to be successful will mean price concessions and concessions along other lines which at first may seem fairly disastrous, but if once this project can be set in motion it will surely set up a wave of prosperity.

It is a campaign of interest to every community and every individual in the country, and if it is to succeed the duty of buying cannot be overlooked. The small town merchant will be a vital part of it. If he can sell, he can re-order, and new orders are what make prosperity.

Either the business tide must turn or America must go down into a period of depression too long and too grave to be contemplated with serenity. Every manufacturer, every dealer, every consumer must ask of himself, "What can I do to help? What can I do to sell my product? What can I buy though it be ever so little, to start this great thing going?"

Much has been said about American prosperity depending upon the stability of Europe, but in trade as in everything else the proverb holds good, "The Lord helps them that help themselves".

Rich men often become voluble over their first dollar, but preserve a discreet silence regarding their last.

RAILROAD INQUIRY
HALTED IN SENATE

Will be Renewed by Interstate Commerce Committee in September
Chairman Cummins Says

CONTENTIONS OF MANAGERS

Washington, July 2.—The railroad inquiry being conducted by the Senate interstate commerce committee halted Friday. It will be resumed in September when representatives of employees will be heard, Chairman Cummins announced.

So far thousands of pages of testimony of railroad managers and security owners has been taken. A summary today showed these to be contentions of the managers.

1—The roads have proven more efficient under private operation than government control.

2—The poor financial showing of the roads is due to war prices for labor, material and supplies.

3—Wages should be reduced as a condition precedent to a return of industrial and economic prosperity.

4—Rates have not been advanced in comparison to the cost of transportation.

5—Reduction of general transportation rates can come only with the decline in labor and materials cost.

FIVE HUNDRED FANS ARE GOING FROM HERE

Big Delegations Plans to Invade
Greensburg Sunday For First of Two-Game Series

NEW OUTFIELDER IS COMING

Five hundred Rushville baseball fans are expected to make the trip Sunday to Greensburg, when the Tail Lights will stack up against the Eagles of that city. A big delegation also will go along on Monday, when the second game will be played. The game Sunday will begin at 3 o'clock and the Monday game will be called at 2:30 so that those making the trip on the train can come home.

A section of the grand stand has been reserved for the local delegation. When Rushville played there a few weeks ago, over 500 from here were present. Greensburg is confident of winning both games, but the locals are equally as sure, and Neiddeffer has made it known that he expects to do his share in winning.

Ralph Pierce, who is well known here, having played on the Rushville team two seasons when the team was managed by John Walker, will be in a Rushville uniform at Greensburg. He is a good out fielder, and a sure hitter. Fultz will pitch the Monday game.

A dance on Monday night for the Rushville people will be given at the pavilion at the park.

 Dempsey Started as a Boxer Way Back in 1915 *****

Born in Salt Lake City in 1895. He was a roving youngster and didn't see much of school. Started his professional boxing career in 1915 out west. He kept at the game, fighting for small sums, meeting anybody to keep himself in food. Rode the brake beams from place to place. He didn't show much outside of a "pork and bean" class until three years ago.

When he came to New York the first time he was broke. A friend staked him to an overcoat to protect him from the wintry blasts. He fought John Lester Johnson and won the decision. Then he fasted for a long time and was knocked out by Fireman Jim Flynn, in what has always been regarded as "one of those things."

Jack Kearns took charge of him and he just began to show real form when the war broke out. He did not enlist, but went to the shipyards.

Quick knockouts of Carl Morris, Bill Brennan, Bat Levinsky and Fred Fulton enabled him to get a fight with Jess Willard for the World's championship and he won the title in Toledo in 1919.

 Carnentier Began as a Boxer When 11 Years Old *****

Born in Lens, France, Jan. 12, 1892. Formed a working partnership with Francois Descamps when he was eight years of age. He became a tumbler and with Descamps traveled around from town to town doing his tricks in cafes and passing the hat. Descamps started him boxing when he was eleven years of age. He started his professional career as a fighter at the age of 15. He won the flyweight, bantam and featherweights championships of France.

He came into prominence by meeting Willie Lewis, Frank Klaus, Joe Jeanette, Gunner Smith and Bomby Wells. Was considered by his countrymen as coming champion.

When the war came he reported with his class (a draft arrangement in the French army) and was assigned to the infantry. Later transferred to the aviation section where he was stationed behind the lines. Was decorated with the Croix de Guerre.

Spent five years in the service and after a rather mediocre showing in a few bouts, jumped into prominence by knocking out Joe Beckett, the British champion, with one punch.

Came to America and knocked out Bat Levinsky in four rounds winning the world's light heavyweight championship. Signed to meet Dempsey for the heavyweight title.

men were still awaiting the word to teake up their posts inside. Among those waiting at the gates were some of the best known sport writers in the country. They were crowded in a rope "bull pen" with the ushers.

Heavy clouds broken through intermittently by the sun hung over the stadium.

Fair weather was promised but it looked threatening.

At 8:40 a. m. the clouds became denser, completely obscuring the sun and rain appeared imminent.

A light misty rain began falling at 9 a. m. and stopped at 9:25.

"Wait till the sun comes out", they said. "That arena is soaked with water and it'll boil with every one in it when the heat goes to work."

Jersey City's down town section showed no early signs that some extraordinary event was on schedule for the day. Looking at the streets deserted save for an occasional pedestrian darting through the side ways toward the stadium, no one would think that this was the town that will appear in print today in Europe, Asia, Africa, America and their suburbs.

Practically all of those whose cash is expected to run Tex Rickard's gate up to $1,500,000, were sleeping in New York with a reserved seat ticket tucked under the pillow.

The "boys" seeking a long distance view of the battle from the five dollar seats that look like the center field bleachers from the ring camped down around the arena all night in crowds waiting for the circus wagons that are to act as circulating ticket windows.

Dempsey, the champion is in town. Every boy in the village told his father that but no one knew just where to turn their steps to get a look at him. Two United Press reporters found the Utah mauler in the home of a millionaire, just about the finest place in town.

Some of the watchmen, posted by Rickard to keep stowaways out of his big coin mill were nearly bowled over at nine o'clock last night when Jack Dempsey himself strutted into the arena, dolled up like a fashion ad and looked over the place.

Those watch dogs of the night got something to talk about from the visit of the champion. Perhaps he was pulling a Jeffries before that old "best of them all" lost to Johnson. Maybe he was like Willard who spent the night on his feet before he lost in Toledo. Maybe it was just plain curiosity. It might have been anything to hear those entries, walking their posts in bright yellow oilskins that shone out of the shadows like dim lights in a fog as they moved around.

Jersey City apparently didn't know this morning where the champion was. A little group of boys in appearance like the youngsters who tag around New York after Babe Ruth, were squatted on the curb in front of the millionaire's residence, gazing up in open-mouthed wonder at the front window, behind which they knew the champion was quartered.

Big threatening clouds were rolling up from the south east at 10:30. A few drops of rain added to the ominous signs.

To one coming into the arena it seemed there were no occupants but policemen, firemen and ushers. There were thousands of ticket holders in their seats but they were lost in the vast big saucer. The bleacher seats were packed.

A "sob sister" in the press box, dressed in bright pink, was the only woman in the stadium at that hour.

Facing the main entrance was a triple horned voice amplifier to be used for the announcement. The fans were having fun yelling through in voices that filled the arena with their opinions of the result of the afternoon festivities.

Rumors were bought in from outside that 20,000 five dollar seats were begging but it did not look as though there were so many available seats up on the rim of the bowl.

Reserved seat holders were slow in coming in. There were very few sitting in the fifty dollar section besides cops and fire men.

French colors were in evidence all around the top of the arena. The stars and stripes were alternated with the tricolor at every twenty yards around the rim.

Tex Rickard, owner and boss of the whole show appeared at the ringside at 10:45. He walked down through the crowd without being recognized. He stood in the press box with an unlighted cigar in his mouth gazing up at the skies.

"I'm very well satisfied" Rickard said. "The weather is just what I wanted. The crowd is coming fine. I think I'll have a million and a half house".

There was practically no betting around the ring. Where ever a wager was offered it was on a 3 to 1 that Dempsey will win. There were few takers.

Johnny Dempsey, brother of the champion, arrived at the ringside a little after 11 o'clock. He had a badge with a picture of his brother pinned on his lapel.

He expressed himself as extremely confident that the champion would win within three rounds. He had seen his brother an hour before he entered the stadium and said at that time that the camp was in fine fettle. He left him playing cards at General Heppenheimers house with Joe Benjamin, light weight member of the Kearns stable.

Early in the day Dempsey received a long telegram from his mother in Salt Lake City, the contents of which was not revealed but in which she expressed the hope and the confidence that her boy "Harry" would keep the championship in America.

The bleacher gates were opened about 10 o'clock. A mad stampede started but was quickly smothered by an avalanche of cops, who crushed the unruly by sheer weight of numbers.

Tex Rickard promoter of the big affair, was on hand early. He came and went through the waiting crowds near his "office" at the rear of the arena, wholly unrecognized.

Another early arrival was Alf Ringling, the showman, generally believed to be associated with Rickard financially in his various sporting ventures.

Although the clouds hung on through the forenoon momentarily threatening the deluge the temperature continued to rise and the fans began to shed their coats.

The official movie picture machines were posted on a steel platform supported by a single steel pillar 20 feet high and about 50 feet from the ring.

A band in shirt sleeves, blew some snappy jazz.

A window shade factory, its upper story topping the southeast of the arena furnished a vantage point for the employees numbering several score.

The official gloves were brought in shortly after 11 a. m. and placed in charge of Mrs. Chas. R. McNair and Mrs. Charles Lyons, wives of members of the state boxing commission who were the first women in the boxes.

Mogridge held the Mack men to three hits in 12 innings in the second game at Washington and the Senators won 1 to 0.

The Athletics took the first two to one, by bunching hits off Johnson in the eighth.

A perfectly executed squeeze play and an error by Catcher Collins gave the White Sox a 3 to 1 win over the Browns at St. Louis.

Pirates soaked the ball at the proper time and beat the Reds 5 to 2 at Smoky City.

Cards outwit the Cubs but sensational support for Alexander saved the day for Chicago by the tune of 8 to 6.

When Senator Watson addressed the senate last week, calling attention to the serious industrial depression throughout the country and the need of prompt action on the part of congress to provide such relief as could be accomplished by legislation, he spoke without thought of courtship the majority leadership, it is only fair to state. His address was not prepared. His remarks were entirely impromptu, but they struck a responsive chord because he had a constructive program to offer, so now whenever the impending change in the majority leadership of the senate is mentioned Senator Watson is immediately suggested as the successor to Senator Lodge.

Senator Watson has felt the pulse of American business and he asserted in his address that its immediate need was a tax revision law, not a permanent tariff law, which latter measure has been given the right of way by the house of representatives. He advocated that when the tariff bill reached the senate it be tabled until the house sent the new revenue bill to the senate and that the senate then delay action on the tariff until it had disposed of the revenue measure.

It is believed that the majority of Republican senators and, probably a majority of the members of the house share the views of Senator Watson that the country is more concerned with tax revision than it is with a new tariff. There seems to be no doubt but what that is the opinion of the business interests of the country.

No mention has been made of Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, chairman of the finance committee, to succeed Senator Lodge as Republican leader because of the Pennsylvania senator's seriously impaired health which has kept him away from Washington much of the time the past two years.
